Socio-cultural interaction of Arab immigration groups with Australian host society (Jordanian migrants - case study)

A thesis submitted for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy

Kais Al-momani

University of Technology, Sydney

August 2008
Certificate of Authorship/ Originality

I certify that the work in this thesis has not previously been submitted for a degree nor has it been submitted as part of requirements for a degree except as fully acknowledged within the text.

I also certify that the thesis has been written by me. Any help that I have received in my research work and the preparation of the thesis itself has been acknowledged. In addition, I certify that all information sources and literature used are indicated in the thesis.

Signature

Kais Al-momani
DEDICATION

To my wonderful parents for their amazing love and support and all my fantastic brothers and sisters for their encouragement and faith in me
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

There are many people I need to thank and acknowledge. The thesis would never have been written without the help of the following.

First and foremost, I want to thank the Jordanian community in Sydney who spoke with me and allowed me to include their letters. Although names cannot be used I thank you for your time and trust. I also wish you well for the future.

I am indebted to Dani Dados-Lima, John Cochrane, Lorraine Shannon and Raya Massie for their friendship, comments and editing abilities. Katherine Carroll, Suyin Hor, Elisa Impara, Wafa Chafic, Astrid Lorange, Amy Chen, James Stuart, Maen Takruri, Mohammad Hatab, Mohamad Momani, Mohammad Al-Jaafari, Akram Al-Sukkar, Mohammad Al-Shboul and Juleigh Slater have all been invaluable colleagues throughout my time at UTS.

I thank my supervisor Devleena Ghosh for sharing with me her extensive knowledge of the field and for her clear and constructive feedback which guided me though the whole process and enabled me to produce the best work possible - thank you very much.

Love and thanks to my wife Nour for her amazing support, for tirelessly proofreading the thesis from its first incarnation to the final document and for giving unfailing support and encouragement. Thank you
TABLE OF CONTENTS

DEDICATION........................................................................................................................................ III

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS ........................................................................................................................ IV

LIST OF FIGURES ............................................................................................................................ VIII

LIST OF TABLES ............................................................................................................................... IX

ABSTRACT ........................................................................................................................................... X

THESIS INTRODUCTION ................................................................................................................... 1

CHAPTER ONE ..................................................................................................................................... 15

MIGRATION AND ITS RESEARCH .................................................................................................... 43

1.0 INTRODUCTION .......................................................................................................................... 15
1.1 DEFINING MIGRATION ................................................................................................................ 15
1.2 A MOVING WORLD: IMMIGRANTS AND IMMIGRATION ......................................................... 20
1.3 MIGRATION STUDIES WITH HISTORICAL BACKGROUND .................................................... 21
1.3.1 REVIEW OF MIGRATION STUDIES ..................................................................................... 21
1.3.2 MIGRATION NETWORKS ....................................................................................................... 25
1.3.3 MIGRATION AND ETHNICITY .............................................................................................. 28
1.3.4 DIASPORA ............................................................................................................................ 32
1.4 ASSIMILATION OR ACCULTURATION ....................................................................................... 34
1.5 BEYOND ASSIMILATION AND ACCULTURATION: ADAPTATION ........................................ 38
1.6 CONCLUSION .............................................................................................................................. 41

CHAPTER TWO .................................................................................................................................. 50

2.0 BRIEF HISTORY OF AUSTRALIAN IMMIGRATION .................................................................. 50
2.1 FROM CONVICTS TO ETHNICS ................................................................................................. 50
2.2 CHANGES IN AUSTRALIAN IMMIGRATION POLICY ................................................................. 57
2.3 CHARACTERISTICS OF MIGRATION TO AUSTRALIA ............................................................. 60
2.4 AUSTRALIAN MULTICULTURALISM .......................................................................................... 62
2.5 ARABS IN AUSTRALIA ................................................................................................................ 66
2.6 ASPECTS OF ARAB MIGRATION STUDIES IN AUSTRALIA .................................................... 66
2.7 IDENTITY AND VALUES FOR ARABS IN AUSTRALIA ................................................................ 67
2.8 STEREOTYPES OF ARABS IN AUSTRALIA .............................................................................. 67
2.9 THE JORDANIANS IN AUSTRALIA ............................................................................................. 68
2.10 RESEARCH QUESTIONS ........................................................................................................... 68
2.11 RESEARCH OBJECTIVES ......................................................................................................... 70
2.12 INTERVIEW QUESTION ........................................................................................................... 71
2.13 INTERVIEW SITUATION ........................................................................................................... 73
2.14 METHODOLOGY ...................................................................................................................... 73
2.14.1 RECRUITMENT ..................................................................................................................... 73
2.14.2 CRITERIA FOR THE SELECTION OF INFORMANTS ........................................................... 73
2.14.3 RESEARCH PARTICIPANTS ................................................................................................. 73
2.14.4 DATA COLLECTION PROCEDURES ................................................................................... 74
2.14.5 CASE STUDY ....................................................................................................................... 74
2.14.6 ETHICAL ISSUES ................................................................................................................ 74
2.15 CONCLUSION ............................................................................................................................ 74

CHAPTER THREE ............................................................................................................................. 76

ASPECTS OF JORDANIAN MIGRATION TO AUSTRALIA ................................................................ 76

3.0 INTRODUCTION ........................................................................................................................ 76
3.1 REASONS FOR IMMIGRATION ................................................................................................. 77
3.2 JORDAN (THE HASHEMITE KINGDOM OF JORDAN) ............................................................... 79
3.3 THE PALESTINIAN REFUGEES IN JORDAN ........................................................................... 80
ACCULTURATION AND ASSIMILATION: SOCIAL INTERACTION OF JORDANIANS IN AUSTRALIA

CHAPTER FOUR

4.0 INTRODUCTION
4.1 ACCULTURATION AND ASSIMILATION
4.2 CULTURAL CHANGE
4.2.1 LANGUAGE
4.2.2 RELIGION
4.2.3 FAMILY LIFE
4.3 TRADITION AND CHANGE
4.3.1 FAMILY VALUES
4.3.2 MARRIAGE
4.3.3 LANGUAGE
4.3.4 LANGUAGE BARRIER
4.3.5 NATIONAL BELONGING
4.3.6 RELIGION
4.4 NEGOTIATION AND EXCHANGE
4.4.1 WORK
4.4.2 RESIDENCE
4.4.3 DISCRIMINATION
4.4.4 ISOLATION
4.5 HYBRIDITY IN THE PROCESS OF ACCULTURATION
4.6 A JORDANIAN WEDDING IN SYDNEY
4.7 CONCLUSION

CHAPTER FIVE

SOCIAL MOBILITY WITHIN ETHNIC COMMUNITY
LIST OF FIGURES

Figure 1: Settler arrivals in Australia: October 1945-June 2005 ........................................ 11
Figure 2: The Jordanian-Born Community (Australia) .................................................. 81
Figure 3: Age .................................................................................................................. 82
Figure 4: Level of Qualifications ................................................................................... 83
Figure 5: Occupation ...................................................................................................... 84
Figure 6: Language spoken at home .............................................................................. 85
Figure 7: Religion .......................................................................................................... 86
Figure 8: Ancestry ......................................................................................................... 87
Figure 9: Year of Arrival ............................................................................................... 88
LIST OF TABLES

Table 1: Arrivals by birthplace for North Africa and the Middle East ......................... 12
Table 2: Populations born in the Middle East 1986 and 1996 ........................................... 91
Table 3: Nationality or citizenship of people from the Middle East granted certificates of Australia citizenship ........................................................................................................... 92
Abstract

Immigration has had a substantial impact on the Australian population over the past four decades. During this period there has been a significant change both in the number of new arrivals and the origins of these settlers.

The Jordanian community, as one of the smallest ethnic groups in Australia, is represented in almost every state in Australia. The first significant Jordanian immigration to Australia occurred in the 1970s. Since then Jordanian immigration to Australia has increased, especially after 1991 because of the Gulf crisis and because the Jordanian government began sending students to Australia to continue their studies. Also, a significant number of Jordanians became Australian permanent residents and thereby contributed to the fast growth of the established Jordanian community in Australia.

This thesis sheds light on the Jordanian groups that immigrated to Australia along with issues relating to the Australian Jordanian community, which is now not only one of the smallest communities in Australia but also one of the most recognisable. The thesis draws an historical and contemporary picture of Jordanians in Australia, including those who stayed in this country after completing their study. This research investigates a wide range of factors, such as the pull and push that drove the population movement from Jordan to Australia. It also investigates the various factors that have interacted with each other to influence the Jordanians’ decision to migrate to Australia.

The study reveals that Jordanian migrants in Australia have often made a smooth transition in their lives in their new country. While the dynamics between migrants from the Middle East and the rest of Australian society has faced many challenges both before and after the event of September 11, 2001, Jordanian immigrants continue to adapt economically and culturally to Australian society and lifestyle.

Furthermore, Jordanian students in Australia are likely to be skilled migrants and to apply for migration status after completing their studies because they believe that Australia will continue to grow faster than other Western countries, and their stay in Australia will help their family back home.
This study offers convincing evidence that Jordanian immigrants play a very important, albeit modest role, in promoting business in Australia. Most of the people whom I interviewed have their own business and this study sheds light on the dynamics of small business ownership, the contribution of Jordanians to this field and its cultural significance to Australian society.

Finally this study concludes with some recommendations for further studies associated with Jordanians inside and outside Jordan.